

GOLD

Is Found Near the City of Newark

THREE HUNDRED ACRES LEAS- ED BY TWO MEN

One is An Experienced Alaska Miner.

THE OTHER IS MR. J. E. STINGER.

Mr. Slatter Took Pan of Dirt to Columbus Saturday to Have It Assayed.

The most sensational announcement that has probably ever been made in Newark, is that gold has been discovered in Licking county, not over 3 miles from the heart of the city. Not only has this discovery been made, but the matter has gone beyond the stage of prospecting, and already work has been done and quantities of the precious metal have been secured. It may in truth be said that gold mining in Licking county is now an actuality, and every indication points to the fact that the metal will be found and produced in large and paying quantities.

The affair is no wild-cat scheme to capitalize a company for the purpose of sinking money in the ground, to be lost in a vain effort to find ore, but has been quietly carried on by two reputable men, who have the only proprietary interest in whatever gold is found. These two men are Ed F. Stinger, the Newark jeweler, and Mr. George W. Slatter, a prominent and wealthy citizen of Columbus. Mr. Stinger is well-known in Newark and nothing explanatory need be said of him. Mr. Slatter is an experienced miner, and only a few months ago returned from a sojourn in the gold regions of Alaska, where he had a practical and eminently successful experience in all kinds of processes of mining gold. He is at present at the head of a large Alaska gold company and has vast interest in the Klondike regions.

It was Mr. Slatter who some months ago, upon his return from Alaska, presented Licking Aerie of Eagles with a handsome gavel made of ivory and inlaid with nuggets of virgin gold, found by himself, while mining in that region. Mr. Slatter is an expert and it is not conceivable that he is deceived in the character of the product, nor in his opinion that it is located in paying quantities in the region under lease by him and Mr. Stinger, 3 1-2 miles southeast of Newark city.

The leases secured by Messrs. Slatter and Stinger, who have formed a partnership for the development of the Licking county gold field, cover hundreds of acres along a run which flows through the farm lands owned by Henry Bolen, Jesse A. Snelling, Henry Wehls and Henry Beatty, and includes the bed of the stream and the banks to the foothills.

This stream has a northerly course, which is a sign acceptable by all expert gold miners as a sure sign that the metal is present, and every other sign which is favorable to the finding of gold in large quantities is present. Mr. Slatter and Mr. Stinger have spent much time along the stream in

FALSE EAR

Fell in Adored One's Lap During Fervor of a Proposal. But the Jap
Was Denied Damages

New York, April 9.—A wax ear which fell into the lap of an heiress posing to her figured in a suit brought by Alfred Beck against Wm. M. Eisen for $25 in the Yorkville Municipal court yesterday.

According to the story told by the defendant the Japanese was of the Samurai, and in a dual fought in his native land he lost nearly the whole of his left ear.

When he came to this country a year ago he had one ear and a stump, and he found the stump was a draw-back to social success, despite the episode of the duel. He went to Mr. Beck and asked him if he could supply an artificial ear, so well counterfeiting the other member as to make folks think both ears were all right, and Mr. Beck said he could.

The order was given and Mr. Beck made the ear. The Jap took it and put it on. He made the acquaintance of a young American woman of means, and they fell in love with each other.

One evening last October he called on the young lady, and was proposing marriage to her, with every prospect of a favorable answer. Becoming animated, he shook his hands and head, when suddenly his left ear fell off in the young lady's lap. She gave a scream, jumped up and ran out of the room. That was the last the Jap saw of her.

He returned the ear, refusing to pay for it. Mr. Beck also refused to pay, the manufacturer. The court decided that the maker of the ear was worthy of his hire.

YOUNG FRIEND OF MISS PAGE

Is Found Mangled on the Railway Track.

Another Tragic Mystery at Boston—
The Page Murder Has Not Been Solved.

Boston, April 9.—In dumbfounding suddenness the murder of Mabel Page, which happened just a week ago, has been followed by another tragedy, the death of Miss Edith L. Coburn, whose nude body was found terribly crushed on the tracks of the Boston and Maine railroad, between Kendall Green and Stonybrook Station. The spot where the young woman's body was found was not far from the home of Mabel Page, who was murdered, and the home of Miss Page was not more than a half mile from the home of Miss Coburn. More remarkable than this, however, is the connection. Miss Coburn and Miss Page were close friends.

The Page mystery is as far from solution as ever. The death of Miss Coburn is also a mystery, for while the facts indicate that she had for some time been slightly affected mentally, that she had been away on a trip because she had been a pitiful sufferer from nervous prostration, that on her home-coming on the day after the murder of Miss Page she was so shocked at hearing of the news that she had taken to her bed, there is absolutely nothing positive as to her being a suicide.

There are wounds on her dead body that do not suggest that they were made by the wheels of a railroad train any more than did the position in which the body was found.

TEN ARE KILLED BY A CYCLONE

Another Furious Storm in Texas Last Night.

Many People Injured and Score of Houses Blown to Pieces—Wires

Fort Worth, Tex., April 9.—Ten people were killed and twenty were badly injured as a result of the cyclone which swept over Limestone county last evening. Most of the killed and injured are negroes, who were working on the cotton plantations. Five negroes were found dead in the wreckage at Mill and Luna, which places were struck by the full force of the storm. One white woman was also killed at the latter place. The wires are down today and it is impossible to get the full details of the disaster. The destruction among the live stock is reported to be extensive. Twenty houses were blown to pieces at Prairie Grove Thursday night.

Bought for Chicago's Big Hospital to Cost $500,000.

Chicago, April 9.—Land has been bought for Chicago's great hospital for the cure of infectious diseases, founded by Herold McCormick and wife, who is a daughter of John D. Rockefeller.

Although no definite announcement has been made, it is believed the hospital building will cost $500,000 while aside from this there will be a heavy endowment. The hospital is to be a memorial for John Rockefeller McCormick, the infant son of the founders, who died of scarlet fever, a few years ago. Dr. Louis H. Hooten, probably will be medical director of the institution, which will be in affiliation with the University of Chicago.

Speaks, president of the military court of inquiry named by Governor Herrick to investigate the riots here, as he and the other members of the body left here at 10:30 this morning for their homes. General Speaks added: "Our report to the governor will not be submitted until week after next. The testimony is voluminous and it will take considerable time to transcribe it. Unless we get additional orders from the governor we shall make no recommendations. Our report will consist simply of a statement of the evidence adduced in the examination of eighty witnesses."

A SKIRMISH AT LA TUNG KAU

Japanese Have Crossed the Yalu River.

Russians Now Claim to Have 400,000
Troops in Manchuria to Check
Jap Advance.

London, April 9.—The Yiu-Kow correspondent of the Central News today wires that a Chinese report has it that the Japanese have crossed the Yalu river into Manchuria, and that a skirmish with the Russians has occurred at La Tung Kau. General Kuropatkin, adds the correspondent, has inspected the New Chwang garrison, which consists of 5,000 infantry and three batteries of artillery. Ten thousand reinforcements are due at New Chwang tomorrow, while 15,000 more are within a day's march of the place. The Russians now claim that they have 400,000 troops in Manchuria, more than enough to outflank any Japanese force which may be advanced.

Paris, April 9.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Echo de Paris says that Admiral Marakoff went out from Port Arthur this morning, a Japanese squadron having been signaled as in the offing. NINETY JAP PRISONERS.

Captain Kumshiske, a Russian naval specialist, has made a report to the czar urging that vessels be dispatched to the far East by the northeast passage, thus saving two months. Should vessels take this northeast route they would pass through the Baltic to the north of Russia through the Behring straits and down through the Pacific.

CORRESPONDENTS

Were Not Permitted to Land at Chemulpo From the Steamer.

Seoul, April 9.—The steamer Suminoye Maru called in at Chemulpo Friday to take on board 300 men belonging to the First division. The newspaper correspondents on board the Suminoye Maru were not permitted to land, and a correspondent who was here waiting to go forward with the Japanese troops was refused permission to embark on the steamer.

A dispatch from Tokio, dated April 1, said the first party of correspondents, consisting of 16 men, mostly British and Americans, had left Tokio that day for the front, and that they would sail for Moji, Japan, on April 6 for an unknown destination. While the departure of these newspaper men from Moji has not been reported, possibly because of the Japanese censorship, it is possible that the correspondents referred to in the above dispatch are those who were to have left Moji last Wednesday. Chemulpo is about a two days' run from Moji.

BOURKE COCHRAN ON PENSIONS

Favors Giving Veterans Liberal Allowance.

But Wants It Done by Congress and Not by a Self-Constituted Authority.

Washington, April 9.—Bourke Cochran today in the house discussed the new pension ruling of Mr. Roosevelt, giving pensions to all war veterans who have reached the age limit. Mr. Cochran was loudly applauded by the Democrats. Among other things, he said: "I want to see generous provision made for the old soldiers in their declining years, but I want to see it done by congress and not by any self-constituted authority."

"If this order is accepted," he declared, "if the money is paid out on such an order, what fragment or shadow of power is left to the house of representatives? The purse is held by the constitution to be under the control of congress," he said, "but what is really done now is opening of the purse, not by this body, but by the executive officer of the government."

CATS WILD

From Thirst—Eight Felines Imprisoned in Room With Body of Beautiful Girl.

New York, April 9.—Braised from head to foot, the body of Rose Beckett, a beautiful and noted ballet mistress, was found yesterday afternoon in her room. The room was in great disorder, indicating, according to the police that there had been a wild struggle.

The police believe the woman was murdered. They have arrested Albert Rossiter, who first discovered the body. It was lying in the middle of the room upon a board supported by two chairs and was covered with a blanket.

Imprisoned in the room with the remains were eight cats. They had been there for fully 12 hours and were almost frantic from lack of food and water.

When Rossiter first discovered the body he ran to the office of Dr. F. R. Pitkin, of Seventh avenue. When the physician had examined the remains he turned to Rossiter and said:

"That woman has been dead for at least nine hours. Some one has beaten her. Do you know anything about it?"

The man trembled violently. Both his eyes were bruised and he was apparently recovering from a long spree.

"I can't remember anything," he answered. "I was in the room with her. We had been drinking. The last thing I remember is that we both fell to the floor. I did not regain consciousness until this afternoon. Then I was in my own room."

When the police arrested Rossiter he told conflicting stories. He seemed on the verge of a nervous collapse.

BACKERS CANAL BILL BACK OUT AND BITTER FIGHT IN PROSPECT

Columbus, O., April 9.—F. A. Henry, of Cleveland, who has the new canal bill in hand, announced that it will be introduced either Monday evening or Tuesday. It was the intention to introduce the bill yesterday, but the member who had been settled upon to father it was absent when the order of introduction of bills was reached.

Treadway, of Cuyahoga, will probably not introduce it. He has disappointed the backers of the measure in practically declining to further ally himself with it. Treadway fears that if he becomes sponsor for the bill it will hurt his chances of landing his school code.

This has hampered the friends of the bill somewhat, but they have determined upon another to take it in charge. Henry said that they had pledged already enough votes to pass the bill. He expects to see the measure handled with dispatch, once it is offered, with no great opposition.

A bitter fight against the measure, is, however, expected.

Many of them were in no condition to make the terrible tramp and some of them almost succumbed from the cold and exhaustion.

OLD PAPERS

Tax Receipts in Licking County From
1806 to 1854—First Receipts
Were Not Printed.

Mr. Joseph Davis, one of the most substantial and prominent residents of Licking township, was in the city Saturday, and made The Advocate office a pleasant visit. He exhibited some old Licking county tax receipts that go far ahead of anything yet produced. The receipts were given Mr. Davis' wife's grandfather, Captain Joseph Sutton, a former well-known and prominent resident of Licking township, for taxes paid on property in said township, and accumulated the years from 1806 to 1854. The receipts from 1806 to 1826 are all written out in full, and contain the names of the different collectors. The first printed receipt does not appear until 1826. Mr. Sutton was a captain in the war of 1812, and Mr. Davis also exhibited some receipts that Captain Sutton had received for commissaries issued to him during that war.

WHY IT IS SO

When it is known that its power to strengthen the system and build up the body is why Father John's Medicine cures colds and all throat and lung troubles, it will be understood why it is so valuable as a tonic and for driving the impurities out of the blood. It feeds the tissues and makes strength. All disease is due to a run-down condition of the body, unhealthy tissue, blood poisoned with impurities and general weakness. While we recommend Father John's Medicine for a number of ailments—in the cure of which it has always been successful, as those who endorse it will tell you—you must understand and remember that all these ills are of the same kindred or family; that they all come from the same source or cause, as stated above. The principle of this medicine is simple. It furnishes the food that the body requires, and strengthens each organ so that it can do its work—that is how the system is cleared of the impurities and poisonous waste matter, and it supplies bodily warmth and vitality. Its ingredients are the same kind of food and nourishment that blood and tissue are made of—pure and wholesome.

ARBOR POSTS, FENCE POSTS, PICKETS AND RAILS. NEWARK LUMBER CO BOTH PHONES.

Mrs. Bittersweet's Proposal

Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure

"Peppers and pumpkins! A widow moved in right next door, and this leap year!"

Mr. Alonzo Larkins stared apprehensively out of his window as if he expected to see his newly arrived neighbor fitting up his porch steps in search of him with a lasso. Instead he really did see a small, inoffensive looking woman walking serenely from her doorway toward her own front lawn bearing a pot of pansies and a towel.

"Oh, of course," he continued caustically, "wants to make a good impression first before she lets out at me! Well, ma'am, my heart is tough. But you are a neat little bundle," he added, with a slight change of tone; "trim as a sassafras whistle. That's right—let that ruffled-up pink contraption slide off your head. Gum, what shiny brown hair! And look at the little curl bobbing over her ear!"

Little Mrs. Bittersweet did not seem at all troubled by the orb Mr. Larkins deemed it expedient to keep focused upon her. She trotted around about her own business, paying little heed to the doings of her bachelor neighbor. The first time she met him plump and square she gave him a sweet, indifferent little neighborly "Good morning," which somehow excited his discontent and ire.

"Took about as much notice of me as she would of a brindle dog," he complained to himself; "in fact, not as much. She pets up all the old stray dogs and gives 'em bones. What's the matter with me, I'd like to know." He looked anxiously into the mirror as he brushed his hair. He saw there in a good looking and fairly good natured face, the chief defect of which was an expression tending toward self conceit.

"Now, ma'am," he observed decisively, addressing the absent widow,

THE WIDOW SAT ON THE EDGE OF HER PORCH.

"You've got to see me and appreciate me. Then if you choose to take advantage of leap year privileges I don't really know as I'll run away."

Meantime Mrs. Bittersweet's attention had been directed to Mr. Larkins by her friend, Miss Podderly.

"He's the smartest man in Bibbville," said she, "and got everything in his house a woman's heart could wish, from gas ranges to teaspoons, got to mention scuds of blue and white ware saucepans. But seems like he's afraid some woman'll marry him in spite of himself. I guess he's too bashful to ask any one. But I believe in my heart you could overcome the difficulty, Polly, if you'd set your cap good and strong."

"Set a saddlestick?" retorted Polly Bittersweet scornfully. "I'll never set my cap for any man."

"Well," said Miss Podderly, with a shrug. "I wish I had the opportunities you turn up your nose at so recklessly."

Mr. Larkins finally grew decidedly discontented and a little puzzled.

"I don't understand you, ma'am," he admitted in one of his mental apostrophes to the widow. "I have so far modified my views as to give you every opportunity to signify your wish to become Mrs. Larkins, and yet you're as cool and calm as a bale of snow. I'm not used to it, ma'am, and I won't stand it. I'll give you three weeks more to get interested in me, and then I'll take and propose to you. That's about what I'll do."

When the allotted three weeks of grace had expired Mr. Larkins in desperation executed his threat and received a plump "No" the result of Miss Podderly's championship and a streak of contrariness in the widow's disposition.

He accepted the sentence with visible disappointment, but bore it with manly fortitude.

"I'm sorry, ma'am," he said frankly, "tearing sorry. I've taken more of a shine to you, somehow, than I ever did to any one, and I'd be good to you, you can bank on that. But if you can't like me you can't. There, now, madam, don't go and cry—don't. I wouldn't hurt your feelings for forty farms. For the widow's heart all at once had smitten her sharply, and some subtle pathos in Mr. Larkins' simple acceptance of defeat caused her eyes to brim with misty tears.

"I'm so-o-o sorry," she faltered, blushing and sobbing, "I—"

"Don't mention it," implored Mr. Larkins. "Don't you be miserable or blue about it. But if you should—kind of change your mind, you know, ma'am, just let me know: won't you?"

Mr. Larkins dived headlong into his garden patch and hoed vigorously to distract his thoughts, and the widow sat down on the edge of her porch and swung her neat little foot dejectedly.

"I do believe I'm half witted," said she under her breath. "I dare say I've lost as good a man as I'll ever meet, and all because Henrietta Podderly told me to run after him. I needn't have run after him, but I could have thrown him away, and I ain't half as smart as I thought I was. I'm lonely and miserable, woo-oo-oo." Mrs. Bittersweet ran into her sitting room and cried as heartily as Mr. Larkins hoed.

After that she smiled sunnily whenever she met him. He smiled genially. The widow daily became more lonesome and more convinced that she had discarded a congenial spirit.

"He won't propose again in a hundred years," she bemoaned herself, "and no wonder, he don't want to risk another snub. He did tell me to let him know if I changed my mind. I hate to like him, but—"

One golden afternoon when both were sitting in an unusually pensive mood upon Mrs. Bittersweet's porch the widow's heart suddenly prompted her to a little prospecting.

"Mr. Larkins," she said softly, "do you ever change your mind?"

"No," returned Mr. Larkins plumply. "No, without solid reason."

"We'll," she continued, holding her breath at her own boldness, "would you still like me to—er—er—be—be?"

Her meaning rushed through Mr. Larkins like a streak of electricity. He sprang out of his lolling attitude at a bounce.

"Polly, if you're asking me if I'd like you to be my wife, I say yes—yes—yes. I didn't dare to ask you again, but you've a perfect right to ask me, even if I hadn't told you to, for it's leap—why, Polly, love, what's the matter? You're as pale as ashes. What is it, darling?"

"Why, I've actually as good as asked you to marry me," gasped Polly, "just what I've always declared I'd like rather than do! Oh, well," as Alonzo's arm stole protectingly around her waist, "I guess I was excusable this time. But, Alonzo, listen. Don't you ever, the longest day you live, let Henrietta Podderly know I did it—will you?"

"Never!" vowed Alonzo, kissing her.

Water's Part in Colloquial Terms.

"How many of our expressive expressions are built around some reference to water?" said a writer. "Take a few brief examples for consideration. If we think a scheme isn't very strong or a statement decidedly weak, we invariably say 'it won't hold water.' Do we infer that more wisdom lurks in an individual's head than he is ordinarily given credit for, what do we say? 'Still waters run deep.' When a person gets into some kind of difficulty, we say he is in 'hot water.' 'When a proposition of any kind is rejected, especially a proposal of marriage, it is a case of having 'cold water' thrown on our hopes.' Fortune has its 'tides,' and blessings or riches are 'rained' down on us. If a speaker exhausts his topic and still tries to talk, we say that he has 'about run dry.' 'Rumors are always termed 'about,' and when a business enterprise goes down we call it 'swamped.' A man struggles to 'hold his head above water,' according to our colloquialisms, and when he doesn't know what plan to pursue in order to accomplish certain ends it is said of him that he is 'all at sea.'—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

An Organ Without Stops.

There is a man living in an Eleventh street flat who has no music in his soul, and there is a man on the lower floor whose soul is full of it. The lower floor man not long ago added a four lung parlor organ to his lares and penates, and two healthy daughters of his began to practice on it. Several nights later a friend paid a visit to the first man, and as soon as he got inside the apartment he heard the parlor organ on the lower floor.

"Fine, toned instrument, that," he said, because he, too, had some music in his soul.

The musicless man granted.

"Whose make is it?" the visitor asked.

"Don't know," was the ungracious answer.

"How many stops has it?"

The host pulled himself up for a powerful effort. "Well," he replied, "it's been in the house for about a week now, and in that time it hasn't had any that I have been able to discover."—New York Press.

Lather and Shaving.

"It always makes me tired," said an old barber, "when a man tells me to quit wasting so much time rubbing in the lather and hurry along with his shave. If he only knew it, he is laying a sure foundation for a chapped and sore face. The reason for using soap in shaving is to remove the grease always close to the skin and on the surface of the beard. This cannot be done without rubbing it well in. Many persons who shave themselves do not understand this and wonder why they have sore faces. They blame the razor and change off to witch hazel or something else. Rubbing the soap in well makes the beard soft and pliable. It also lessens the chances of the razor slipping. Always rub the lather well in with the fingers, never with the brush."

MAXIMS FOR THE YOUNG.

If courage is gone all is gone. Put the best of yourself into all you do.

Fly from pleasure that bites tomorrow.

If you lose heart you weaken your head.

A wise man can keep silent; a fool cannot.

Prosperity in evil is the greatest misfortune.

No office can make a worthless man respectable.

Hurry not only spoils work, but spoils life also.

A noble failure is better than a disreputable success.

A man should have "the will to do, the soul to dare."

Share the burden of others, and you will lighten your own.

BRIDGE

Where Lovers Plight Their Troth is to Be Rebuilt.

A "lovers' leap" is considered a good thing in Columbus Junction, Ia., where lovers wore the old affair out, and a new one is being built to take its place. The "leap" in this instance is a bridge and as such is one of the oldest contrivances that have ever been built in the Hawkeye State, says the Chicago Tribune. The towns of Columbus Junction and Columbus City are built on towering hills that overlook the valleys of the Iowa and Cedar rivers, these two streams forming a junction near the two towns. Columbus City is the older town and is located farther back on the hills.

When the Rock Island railway people built their two lines there were too many hills to get anywhere near the old town, so a new town was started at the junction and called Junction City. The two places are separated by a number of deep ravines, and it was found necessary for the people to bridge one of them in order to get back and forth. It is claimed that most of the population of the old town was composed of pretty girls, while there was an army of young men in the new town. This occasioned a great deal of traveling back and forth, and the boys had to go around several miles or make a short cut down through the ravine.

When the young men got old enough to vote they voted a bridge across the ravine. It was a picturesque affair, and the new one will be as near like it as two peas resemble each other.

There are two great steel cables stretched across from bank to bank, and from these cables a narrow platform is suspended.

After the first bridge was built the young people of both towns utilized it. The bridge was the objective point for a walk, and it is claimed that Cupid was the bridge tender. It is asserted that half of the matches of the two towns have been made there, and the boys boast that they "popped the question" in midair.

No one about the place can tell how it came to be known as "lovers' leap," for certain it is that no couple has ever been known to start to cross or leave it save at a slow walk. No one ever has had occasion or thought to pitch off the place where happy unions were planned, and there is no other than this same prospect for the new bridge. But the old name will be retained, there being a superstitious fear of changing the luck by bestowing a more appropriate one.

Wild Geese Lost in Kentucky Town.

A very large flock of wild geese were lost in Bowling Green, Ky., at about 9:30 o'clock the other night, and for awhile their cries could be heard all over the town, says the Bowling Green News. It is said that the geese were migrating back to the north, which is a sure sign that winter is over. When Bowling Green was reached they became dazzled by the electric lights and completely lost their way. In the original flock there were perhaps several hundred geese, but they were separated and left in several smaller flocks. One gentleman who saw the geese before they were separated described the scene as one not unlike an approaching storm, the sky being black with the dense flock. Several shots were taken at the geese in various parts of the city, but as far as can be learned none was killed.

Siberian Railway Features.

In 1901 the great Siberian railway was thrown open to the public. There was then in operation a total of 1,444 miles in Manchuria and 3,559 miles in Siberia, a continuous Russian line from Moscow to Port Arthur of 5,429 miles, and the new trains de luxe, which will begin running this summer, will give virtually a through service from Paris to Port Arthur, a distance of 7,299 miles, 6,600 miles of which is over Russian lines.

The "Panouma" Stone.

A new stone recently made its appearance in London and has been seized upon by lovers of agate, jade and other forms of stones adaptable for decorative purposes. The name given to it is "panouma," and it comes from New Zealand. It has an opaque, rich, green tone, somewhat of the color of jade, but not so dense and is capable of a higher polish. It might almost be mistaken for moss agate.

SOME CUSTOMS OF THE KOREANS

Punishment of Criminals Extends to Families—All Work Left to Women—Men Strenuous Only for Amusement and Sport—Fearful Tortures.

Ernest von Hesse-Wartegg, the famous German traveler, husband of Minnie Hauck, relates some interesting facts on Korean life, writes the Berlin correspondent of the New York Times.

"In Korea, as in Morocco," he says, "tortures are very common. In the prisons I saw instruments which were not so fearful as those which two centuries ago were used in our own country—only simple sticks and ropes or the well known 'kang,' the neck board—but they put them to a fearful use. Only a few years ago the legs of condemned persons were broken with the sticks, while the ropes were placed twice around the loins of the victim and pulled together in such a manner as to sink deep into the flesh. Besides these tortures, the punishments are extended to the family of the criminal. For example, even today the punishment for treason is decapitation of the offender and the poisoning or enslavement of the mother, wife and daughter. The treason of a woman is punished by poisoning. For murder the punishment is similar. If a man commits theft he is decapitated or in lesser cases banished to a lonely island, his property confiscated and his wife sold as a slave.

"For the desecration of the graves of ancestors—for in Korea a cult prevails similar to that in China—the offender and all his male relations to the fifth degree are decapitated, and his mother and the other female members of his family are poisoned. The poisoning is usually done in prison by a dose of arsenic. The decapitation until a few years ago took place in a broad, frequented street before the west gates of the city. The notice of death sentence is usually published in the written State's Gazette.

"The police system in Korea is very elaborate, and it is rare that a criminal escapes unless he has money enough to fill the pocket of a mandarin. Every male Korean possesses a pass, consisting of a long tablet, on which his name, position and residence are written. The tablets of the common people are of wood, of soldiers' horn, of the low nobility and officials bone. The ministers, princes and high nobility use red visiting cards; also small tablets of ivory, for every Korean is compelled to have such a pass. Usually he wears it with a string around his neck under his clothes or on the lower arm under the sleeve. If at night a pedestrian in the street is found without his tablet he is at once arrested. At receptions the Koreans introduce themselves by presenting these passes with a deep bow.

"On the public streets one sees only women of the lower classes, and these hide their faces when foreign men approach. Only the dancers and singers appear on the street without a veil. Women take no part in public amusements or in out of door sport. Two festival days of the year are, however, given up to them entirely. The first of these festivals is a general bathing day, usually occurring in August. On this day in all of the cities and villages women and children troop to the shores of the river. The second feast day is devoted to the old women of the lower classes, who for the whole year are compelled to do the heaviest work, carry burdens, gather rags and clean streets. On this day they need not do any work. They dress themselves in clean white clothes and go to the quarters of the rich, where all houses are open to them. There they receive gifts of money and refreshments and are allowed to wander through the houses and gardens. On the next day they return to their usual work. On the day devoted to ancestor worship the women also take part with the men.

"Owing to the lazy characteristics of the Koreans public amusements in their life play a great role. All work is left to women. The men sleep, smoke, gossip, play cards and dominoes, fish, hunt, fly kites and practice with bow and arrow. The Koreans in this respect have acquired great skill, and the sport is fostered by the government. Boxing and wrestling are also industriously practiced, and in a personal fight even the Mantchoos are not equal to them, while the small Japanese are pygmies in comparison. Neighboring villages or parts of a city frequently arrange sporting contests.

"Next to the birthday of the king the greatest festival day of the year is the commemoration of victories which the Koreans have repeatedly won against the Japanese. No nation is so hated by the Koreans as the Japanese, whom they contemptuously call 'wojen.' This hatred cannot be easily eradicated, and in case of a Russian victory the Japanese will have to do with the Koreans."

Somnambulist's Long Trip.

An extraordinary case of sleep walking is reported of a young servant girl, says a London cable dispatch to the New York Herald. She went to bed the other night in her employer's house at Roughton, Sussex. When she woke up she found herself on Mousehold heath, Norwich, eighteen miles away. On a former occasion she took another night walk in her sleep, waking up to find herself fully dressed in Cromer, several miles away from where she had gone to sleep.

The day was spent socially until the dinner hour, when the guests were invited to be seated at the large table loaded with all the good things of the season to which all did ample justice. Miss Fanny Killworth of Columbus, favored the party with musical selections while four young men added to the amusement with their wit and humor. Mrs. Heller was presented with several remembrances by her friends.

The Alfretha Club gave a very delightful dance on Friday evening at Assembly hall.

Mesdames Appy, Gregory, Timms, Boyer, Dicks, Long Anderson, Wilson and Henry Sayre and Misses Mary C. Jones and Allie Anderson.

"Like mother like daughter," is an old saying that finds proof in the fact that the young daughters of some of our prominent club women have formed a club which meets every two weeks on Friday. As yet the club has not been named. This week the meeting was held at the home of Ruth Rickett on North Fourth street. The members of the club are Carter Zentmyer, Grace Wilson, Sue Tarré, Edna Wetton and Ruth Rickett. The guests were Dorothy Edmiston and Jessie Wilcox. The club is devoted to amusement of some kind, and supper is served.

The Mission Circle of the Second Presbyterian church will hold its regular monthly meeting in the church parlors on Monday evening. This is the first meeting of the year, and it is earnestly desired that there be a full attendance.

The Tuesday Afternoon Circle club was entertained on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. F. Collins. The club prizes were received by Mr. W. W. Neal for most progressive and Miss Jessie Robinson for long lane. The guests were received by Mrs. Mame Smucker and Miss Lois Taylor.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the First M. E. church met on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Frank Azner. It was an excellent meeting, there being about fifty-five present. The program consisted of the devotional exercises, reports and a paper. The People of China, by Mrs. Newkirk. After the close of the program refreshments were served, and a social hour enjoyed.

The Unity Reading Circle was entertained on Tuesday evening by Mrs. Alta Smith. Roll call was responded to with quotations from Longfellow, and the following program was carried out:

Concentration and Diffusion of Wealth, Book 1, Chapter VI., Miss Blanche Murphy.

A Civic Renaissance, March Chautauque, Mrs. Fant. Talk on Longfellow, Mrs. Dr. Day. Refreshments were served.

Miss Mary Somers very pleasantly entertained the Happy Hour Club at Finch Thursday evening at her home on West Main street. Prizes were awarded to Bessie Markham and Forrest Hall. Guests of the club were: Misses Ada Parrish, Calla Markham, and Carrie Somers.

The Progressive Club celebrated President's day on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss Julia Smith on East Main street. The afternoon's exercises began with the usual roll call, which was responded to with quotations on the rose, the club flower. The minutes of the last president's day were read. Miss Gertrude Sook, the retiring president, made a few well-chosen remarks after which Mrs. Wm. Zentmyer, the newly-elected president, was escorted to the chair, and while they still stood, Miss Pittser, in the name of the club, presented Miss Sook with a great bunch of roses, for which she very charmingly expressed her appreciation. The corresponding secretary read reports from those who were unable to be present. The club then adjourned, and the afternoon's social entertainment began. Mrs. Stevens gave a monologue, subject: "Maggie Maloney's Day Off." It goes without saying that Mrs. Stevens made her club proud. A one act play, entitled: "Mrs. Willis's Will," then followed with the caste:

Jennie Mrs. Geo. Franklin Rachel Mrs. U. O. Stevens Mrs. Dundle Mrs. Chas. McGrunder Lady Spindle Mrs. Chas. Allen Mrs. Robinson Mrs. Wm. Zentmyer

The play proved the irony of fate in the wealth falling to the maid who was wholly ignorant of her good fortune, while those who were exerting every nerve to add to their already full purses, were disappointed. The performance received abundant and well merited applause. The afternoon closed with a banquet which fully came up to the traditions of the club. This was the tenth anniversary, so the toasts were drunk from small tin cups which were given as souvenirs of the occasion. The toast mistress was Mrs. Charles Allen, and the toasts were responded to as follows:

Federated Clubs, Mrs. Stratton. Leap Year, Miss Latimer. London, Mrs. Alice Smith. Tenth Anniversary, Mrs. Kate Litter. Toasts—Old and New, Mrs. McGrunder.

Each club member was entitled to invite one guest, and everyone present felt herself highly honored. Thus ended another chapter in the doings of one of the oldest clubs of our city.

The Alfretha Club's Easter dance was given Friday evening at Assembly hall. Supper was served at eleven o'clock. Marsh's orchestra furnished the music. Those who enjoyed the club's well-known and delightful hospitality were: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Miller, Mrs. and Mrs. Charles Rhoads, Mr. and Mrs. Robbins Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. HAVE YOU IDLE MONEY?

The Newark Telephone Company, whose exchange has grown from 500 to 1500 subscribers within a very short period, in the month of March installed 80 telephones. About the same number will be installed this month. This remarkable growth means the expenditure of a large sum of money, more than the Company is able to pay out of its earnings. This growth is therefore provided for in part by the issue of 5 per cent Preferred Non-Taxable stock. The stockholders have authorized the issue of $15,000 worth of this stock. Both the common and preferred stock pays dividends.

The leading men of Newark are buying it. It is safe, absolutely, pays 5 per cent and the man who holds it has no tax to pay out. The company pays the tax. The assessors will soon be around and if you have a few hundred dollars on hand, now is the time to invest it where it will be earning a good rate of interest and be free from taxation. Manager Hollander will show you the list of 57 men and women who hold stock in this company. Their names are a guarantee in themselves. A statement of the business of the company is open to every prospective purchaser. This matter is worth investigation. If you have $100 to invest you will receive the same consideration as the person who has $10,000. Call at the exchange, inspect the plant, look at the books, talk with the manager or with any of the officers of the company. Do it now. The stock will soon all be sold.

The news from the far eastern war indicates not only that the advance of the Japanese army has reached the mouth of the Yalu by land, but that a large force is being transported thither by sea. If the latter is true, and the landing should be successfully made, it will indicate that the Japanese navy has by its attacks upon Port Arthur prevented the Russian fleet from interfering with the army transports.

The Democratic state convention of Kansas, complimented Mr. Hearst on his victory in the coal trust decision, but failed to endorse him for president. Further than that it elected 15 anti-Hearst delegates and only five Hearst ones, and left the whole 20 free from instructions. This result will on the whole be quite satisfactory to the Democrats of the country generally, but it is likely to be considerable of a disappointment to the Hearst boomers.

The voters of Chicago on Tuesday decided by very large majorities in favor of authorizing the city authorities to take over the control of the street railways, and also in favor of temporarily licensing these railways until the city was prepared to take them over. A further proposition authorizing the city authorities to construct, own, operate and lease street railways was also approved. About 180,000 votes were polled, and the majority for the propositions ranged from 79,000 to over 120,000. The result does not necessarily mean the immediate taking over of the street railways, because of the option permitted the authorities of licensing them for a period until they are ready to purchase them. But it will ultimately mean municipal ownership in Chicago of the traction roads, unless the management of the latter can during the time allotted them so placate public sentiment as to secure a reversal of the policy approved by the city's voters.

the past two weeks and have had a force of men at work, until now the ground has been ditched all around and the stream diverted by means of a dam which they have constructed. In the bed of the stream exposed, the gold seekers have taken a number of pans of dirt, and each has invariably shown quantities of gold, varying with the depth below the surface. Even at a depth of only fifteen inches, bright yellow flakes of gold may be seen among the dirt and sand. It requires no glass or chemical process to detect the gold, which may be picked up and handled. The gold is of the best color and both men, who are expert metallurgists, pronounce it of fine quality.

Mr. Slatter took a pan of dirt to Columbus on the 1 o'clock interurban car Saturday afternoon, and will have it assayed before returning. This specimen was taken at a depth of about four feet.

The method of procedure will be to divert the stream from a portion of the bed at a time, and then go down to bed rock, where the gold in large quantities is expected, from the deposits of centuries, washed down from the banks and hills beyond. Of course much of this gold has been deposited, in smaller quantities, as it was carried along to the bed of the stream, and even here the metal can be found in paying quantities, according to the experience of the prospectors.

While digging down to bed rock the dirt along the banks and sides of the run will be thrown into the sluices and the gold taken from it.

Machinery of the best make will be put in, sluices built and every preparation made for getting the gold out, and if it pans out as Mr. Slatter, an expert, believes it will, the effect can hardly be realized at this time, on the future of Newark and Licking county.

The old Klondiker is not a dreamer but a practical miner, who knows whereof he speaks from actual experience. He is a man of wealth as well as experience so that he has no object in announcing a find of gold that does not exist. In fact, the work has been carried on so secretly by the two men interested, that the announcement in The Advocate will be the first news that anyone has had of the wonderful discovery, outside of Messrs. Stinger and Slatter and their workmen.

Many years ago an old man who has since died, came to Newark from Eastern Licking county, frequently with small vials of gold, which he sold to jewelers in Newark. He would never tell where he found the gold, but it is now known that he obtained it from the same stream in which Slatter and Stinger have made their discovery.

Dorothy Dodd

The Style of a "Dorothy Dodd"

Let us assume that your Shoes fit you. Now what next? What is most important? Unquestionably "Style." Demand that a Shoe shall possess "Style." If it has style and little else you want it; if it has not style but everything else, you don't want it.

The "Style of a 'Dorothy Dodd'" is Unique

It cannot be duplicated by any other maker, because the "Dorothy Dodd" is a totally different construction from any other ladies' shoe made. It holds the foot firmly at the waist (that's the instep), prevents the toes from slipping forward, and thus gives a correct poise in walking. Yet it makes the foot look nearly a whole size smaller. That's curious, and you won't believe it till you see it. JUST FOR ONCE TRY THE "STYLE OF A DOROTHY DODD."

SUNDAY SCHOOL IN THE NORTH END OF TOWN.

King's Daughters and Sons Held Meeting Friday Night and Arranged to Establish the School.

The regular meeting of the County Union of the King's Daughters and Sons was held on Friday evening in the First M. E. church, representatives from five circles being present. The business meeting was opened at 7:30 by the county chairman, Miss Emma Lisey, Mrs. Legge acting as secretary pro tem. In the absence of the regular secretary, Miss Gertrude Carpenter, a hymn was sung and prayer by Mrs. Fulton followed by a report of the secretary and roll call.

The principal business transacted was in relation to the proposed Mission Sunday school to be established in the North End by the King's Daughters and Sons. A committee, consisting of Miss May Lumley, Mrs. Wright and Mrs. W. D. Fulton, was appointed to secure a place for holding the school, and attend to the business connected with it. The following named persons were appointed as a committee to canvass the district and secure pupils: Mrs. George Webb, Miss Helen Bowers, Mrs. J. H. McCahon, Mrs. Arthur Banton, Miss Henthorn, Miss Barker, Miss Mabel Whitecamp, Miss Nash,

Miss Nichols and Miss McClure.

Dr. Cosgrove gave a very interesting and helpful talk, which, briefly stated is as follows:

"You are united to see how much good you can do for others, to forget yourself in the happiness and good of others. If you cannot help in another way, you can feel and look kindly and lovingly, and the answer to your effort will come in the smile given back to you. You bring sunshine into the lives of others and have the right object in living, and what a satisfaction it is to know you are right. You are proving those paradoxes, 'Giving is getting,' 'Dying is living,' 'Loss is gain,' 'Suffering is pleasure.' We never get strong until we begin to serve others, and in this way come to know what it really means to serve God."

The reports of the various circles were given as follows: Whatsoever Circle, Newark, Miss Helen Bower; Cup of Cold Water Circle, Granville, Mrs. Legge; Silent Circle, Newark, Mrs. McCahon; Bethel Circle, Alexandria, read by Mrs. Legge; Brightening Circle, Newark, Mrs. Fulton; Sunshine Circle, Miss MacDonald.

The reports of the circles were relieved by a fine vocal solo by Mr. Benjamin Hoover.

Mrs. Ross Smith read the hymn composed by Miss Lumley for the Silent Circle, and an earnest talk by Rev. Mr. Sparks on the subject of the work of the organization concluded the interesting program.

The total membership of the seven Licking county circles is about 175.

THE CHURCH

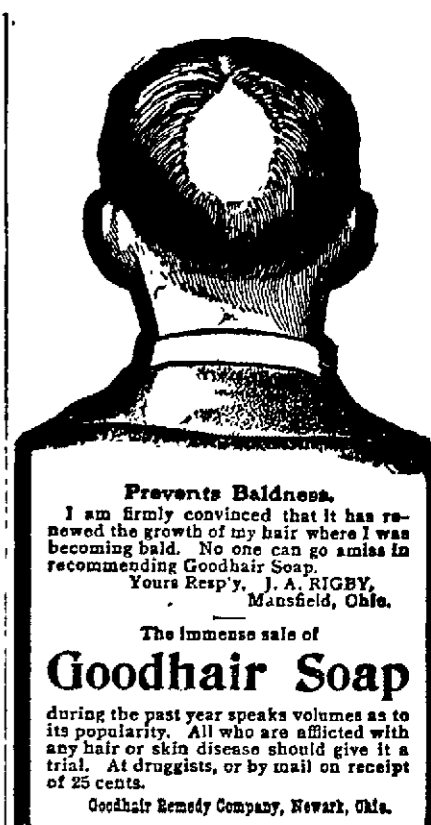

IS JUST ONE OF THE HELPS TO RELIGION.

"Whoever Shall Confess My Name Before Men Shall Be Saved," Said Christ

(Communicated.)

Away back in the dark ages men worshiped idols. They did not know they had souls but there was within them a longing for something to adore, though they did not know it was God's holy spirit working in them. Stronger and stronger this spirit grew, till they began to feel their souls. God revealed Himself in dreams and signs. They felt that a spiritual being was taking the place of their false God. They naturally raised altars and offered sacrifices to this new-found God. God encouraged them in this because He saw they could not go from this worship of material things to a spiritual worship without signs and symbols. By pouring this spirit into the souls of the best and most spiritual. He tried to bring all people to Him. But they loved wickedness and all the forms and ceremonies of life, and would not turn to Him in spirit. So Christ in His pity for us came down and offered Himself as a living sacrifice, to do away with material sacrifice forever more, to sacrifice and worship in spirit. How did He come? In a material form but a very spiritual nature, so that through a little of the material nature they might grasp the spiritual. What was His life among us? Of the very simplest nature, without form or ceremony. He took upon Himself the spiritual form of dress of the times that He might not make Himself conspicuous. In the simplest way He went about teaching and loving and trying to draw out the spiritual natures with all pity and charity for faults. He did not go into the temple and use the symbols that men in their flight from the worship of idols had instituted in their weakness to help them, but to the symbols of nature that God gave His people long ago to represent His love for them, and to draw them to Him through their souls. "Whoever shall confess My name among men shall be saved," He said. The two special ways in which He wished us to confess His name were in baptism and communion. When He was baptised where did He go? Don't you see His beautiful river? Whether He put a few drops of water upon His head or His whole body into the waters matters not. The Holy Spirit rested upon Him. That was the point. That was what He wanted to teach. At the last supper all knew it was a communion of spiritual things more than material. "This do in remembrance of Me," He said. But He did not say how or where, but "remember Me." It matters not whether we gather together or commune with Him in spirit individually, but it seems just and right and unselfish that we like His disciples should gather to feel that He is near in spirit. Music everywhere is a very great help to spiritual nature. I believe God sent His singers upon earth, with songs of sadness and mirth, that they might touch the hearts of man and bring them back to Heaven again. I do not think He meant only the human singers but also the song of the bird and all music in nature. Possibly these things do not appeal to some natures. If you are of so material a nature that you cannot find anything in God's beautiful world to show His love to you then turn to the forms and ceremonies that man has instituted for this purpose in which ever church seems best to you. My plea is for broad-mindedness and charity as Christ had it. Do not believe that because a person belongs to the Methodist Episcopal or any other church, or no church, he cannot be saved. "Whoever shall confess My name before men shall be saved," and there are many ways of confessing His name.

A true, and brave, and downright honest man. He blew no trumpet in the marketplace. Nor in the church with hypocritical face. Supplied with cant this look of Christianian grace. Bathing pretense He did with cheerful will. While others talked of while their hands were still! And while "Lord! Lord!" the pious trants cried, Who in the poor their Master crucified, His daily prayer for better understanding.

In acts than words, was simply doing good.

To calm, so constant was His rectitude.

That by His loss alone we knew His worth.

And felt how true a man had walked with us on earth.

Do not make the mistake in thinking that church is religion. It is just ONE of the helps to religion. If we could not pray to God in private it would be different. Christ did not rebuke the church of the disciples any more than He ceased to love them for their other spiritual weaknesses for He knew they needed these stepping stones to the better spiritual life.

Certainly He gave a beautiful example of the worship of God in simplicity in His beautiful life on earth. The more we can do without signs and symbols, except those God has put all around us in the beautiful world to speak to our souls of His love, the nearer we will draw to Christ and His life. I feel as Charles Wagner did about forms and doctrines. They worry me no longer. I see in them only God in search of man and man in search of God.

If you come from work well done, are as amiable and genuine as possible towards your companions, and speak no evil of the absent, your success is sure. "Let the words of my mouth and the meditations of my heart be always acceptable in thy sight O Lord, my strength and my Redeemer." If the meditations of your heart are always acceptable to God, your words and acts will be. This is the whole of religion. If your religion makes you feel yourself better than others it is no religion. ADVOCATE READER.

RACIAL ELEMENTS ENTERING INTO THE LOCAL POPULATION

And Part Played by Each in Historical Development—Hint to Granville Committee.

In the forthcoming centennial celebration at Granville the various racial elements entering into the population of Licking county and the part played by each in the historical development of the community should not be overlooked. Germans, Irish, Scotch, Welsh and other peoples have long dwelt here. Each race has reacted in its own peculiar way upon its environment, modifying, unconsciously perhaps, local thought, customs and institutions, not to speak of economic conditions.

Surely some note of factors so conspicuous in the history of the community as these should be taken. Data illustrative of ethnic life and achievements exist on every hand and need only to be collected and brought together to make interesting exhibits.

Suggestive in this connection is the following, issued recently for the use of the Norwegian department of the Pan-Racial Institute:

It is understood that the librarian of this department will, on accepting office, avail himself of every means at his command to promote the upbuilding of the library. In the first place, he should aim to bring together library material of every sort pertaining to the Norwegian race. Much valuable matter of this character may be had for the gathering. Race sentiment, a sense of duty to scholarship, and other motives, will prompt the giving of material otherwise unobtainable. Many new books and new editions of old books can be had gratis, for the library, of authors and publishers. Old books, pamphlets, manuscripts, diaries, personal narratives and reminiscences, tracts, leaflets, maps, charts and like objects of value, may be found scattered here and there in nooks and corners throughout every Norwegian community, and should be collected or brought under the control of the library. Norwegian churches, schools, charitable organizations, clubs, mutual aid associations, secret societies and other institutions and organizations, should be requested to place the library on their mailing lists and to send to the librarian such reports, year books, constitutions and by-laws, programs, membership lists, account of ceremonies and celebrations, published sermons and addresses, and so forth, as may be available. Complete files of Norwegian newspapers, magazines and other periodical literature, together with a representative collection of Norwegian music should be solicited.

Lastly, each Norwegian community should be urged to contribute to the library an abundant record of its local history.

In the second place, the librarian should aim by annual reports, public addresses, published articles, private and circular letters, and otherwise, to advertise the scope, character and needs of his work. For until its significance is understood, it cannot be reasonably hoped that it will be largely appreciated or substantially encouraged.

Finally, he should co-operate with the directors of the department in soliciting funds for the library. Important work can be done by a zealous librarian with but slight pecuniary assistance, and if such assistance is not forthcoming from one direction, he should not fail to take the initiative. In other words, if to obtain results it should seem necessary for the librarian to assume the aggressive he should not hesitate to do so.

In like manner the curator should aim to upbuild the museum. He should seek to bring together, not only collections of original articles, such as implements, utensils, weapons of warfare and the chase, but, in addition, models, casts, drawings, photographs and other representations of these objects. Thus the evolution of the plow, the cart, the knife, the broom and other objects of common life may be strikingly exhibited, and the successive steps in the advancement of Norwegian culture indicated.

Similarly, the director of the art gallery should set about collecting objects and representations distinctive of Norwegian art. The gallery should include, among other things, first, illustrations of the highest art productions of the race; second, objects of historic interest, such as photographs and other likenesses of eminent Norwegians and pioneers of Norwegian communities; third, pictures of historic landmarks, monuments and burial places; fourth, illustrations of the evolution of Norwegian architecture, house decoration, artistic bookbinding and graphic and plastic art work in general.

Lastly, the secretary of the bureau of information and research should compile and index such information concerning the Norwegian race as may be of value to specialists and others. Graduate students and other persons familiar with the methods and habits essential to independent investigation should be encouraged to engage in original research work, especially in the field of local history. Norwegian settlements should be minutely studied from the standpoint of their origin, physical environment, social, religious and economic life; their contributions to the moral and material development of the state, etc. Charts showing their location in the United States and other countries should be made. The study of Norwegian life with reference to its contributions to the arts and sciences, philosophy, government and navigation, and so on, should be promoted. Moreover, the bureau should aim, by means of such agencies as the stereopticon slide, the lecture platform and the public press, to become a potent educational force in society.

Mr. J. F. Jones, of this city, secretary of the international committee of the Pan-Racial Institute, who is now devoting his entire time to the work, will doubtless be able to give the Granville committee some valuable hints should the proposition be considered favorably.

CARPENTERS SAY THEY HAVE NOT AGREED WITH CONTRACTORS.

Official Deliverance From Local Union No. 136 Makes Plain the Situation at Present

It was stated early in the week that the carpenters of the city, who had demanded some concessions from the contractors in the matter of wages, had agreed to accept the old scale and were at work under the agreement. The following official deliverance from Local Union, No. 136, Carpenters and Joiners, puts another light on the matter:

LOCAL UNION, NO. 136, Newark, Ohio, April 9, 1904

To Whom it May Concern:

It is our duty to rectify some false impressions that has been going the rounds about the carpenters and contractors making a settlement, concerning the wage scale, which is altogether false. The carpenters and joiners demanded that 30 cents be the minimum scale, and the contractors offered but 28 cents. Therefore there is no settlement between us. The committee reported back to the local union the result of its doings and that body passed a resolution that we stand firm in our demands for 30 cents per hour and any man found working for a less scale shall be fined every day he is working or expelled, or both.

THE Y. M. C. A.

TODAY HAS A MEMBERSHIP OF OVER SEVEN HUNDRED

Annual Meeting Tuesday, April 12, for Election of Trustees, Etc.—The Association is Flourishing.

The Newark Young Men's Christian association now has a membership of 725, compared with 554 a year ago. The World's Fair membership tournament has already brought in 120 new members.

At a meeting of the trustees Friday night the religious work committee reported a large interest in that department during the six months just closed. During that period twenty-three men's meetings have been held with a total attendance of 3,985.

The educational, physical and social department committees all reported a large growth in their respective departments.

A complete report of the year's work will be submitted at the annual meeting of the association next Tuesday night, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. On this occasion the president will read his annual report and five trustees will be elected, the trustees whose terms expire being Messrs. H. H. Leist, Harry Scott, E. S. Randolph, A. C. Dickinson and Wesley Montgomery. At this meeting the adoption of the new constitution read at the last meeting will probably take place and this will be followed by announcements, a social hour and refreshments. All members are invited to be present.

Although the year just closed has been the most expensive the association has ever had, the board is able to report the year closed with current expenses met and all bills paid.

Among other business transacted, the board voted to proceed at once to get the athletic field into shape and begin baseball, tennis and outdoor sports as soon as possible.

In a very large degree the great success of the Newark Y. M. C. A. is due to Mr. A. A. Ebersole, the general secretary. Mr. Ebersole is not only thoroughly capable but he has a personality that appeals to men. He is a highly educated man and he understands Y. M. C. A. work. He knows men and understands the work that confronts him.

LINDSAY-TAES

Mr. James L. Lindsay and Miss Alice Taes were married Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. Newton Miller at his residence on North Fifth street. The groom's home is in Moline, Ill., and the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Taes, of the same place. She has been making her home for the past six or seven months with her sister, Mrs. Arthur Haycock, in Johnstown, this county. It is quite probable that the newly wedded couple will make their future home in Newark. They have the best wishes of all their friends.

COLD WAVE

WITH RAIN OR SNOW. TONIGHT AND SUNDAY

A Big Drop in the Temperature Today—Balm and Springlike Early in the Morning.

When Newark people walked out of doors this morning they smiled and remarked that the weather man "had missed it again as usual." The cold wave with snow promised for Saturday had failed to arrive. The air was balmy and springlike. However, it must be remembered that the weather bureau didn't announce the exact hour of the blizzard's arrival, and before noon its advance agent made an appearance, promising the "big show" later in the day.

The mercury made a big drop during the day, but it bids fair to drop still farther tonight. Here is today's prediction sent out by telegraph to The Advocate from the Washington weather bureau:

For Ohio: Colder tonight, with rain in the southern and rain or snow in the northern portions. Sunday, partly cloudy, with rain or snow in the northeast portion of the state and colder in eastern Ohio.

Chicago, April 9.—Dispatches from the Northwest report heavy snow and wintry winds, approaching a blizzard in many places.

In northern and central South Dakota the heaviest snow storm of the season prevailed for 24 hours. It is feared there has been great loss of cattle on the ranges.

In Guthrie and in Oklahoma general high winds and sandstorms, accompanied by a cold wave, prevailed during Friday.

Storms accompanied by heavy rain were general throughout Indian Territory. At Featherstone, Frank Ponder, section foreman on the Fort Smith and Western railroad, was killed by lightning.

As wired The Advocate yesterday, Nebraska was swept by the worst April storm in years. A fine sheet of sleet and snow was driven by a wind that at times reached the velocity of a hurricane.

Northern Missouri and eastern and central Kansas experienced a blizzard, accompanied by a slight fall of snow. Fruit trees and garden truck were damaged.

A heavy snow storm, accompanied by cold, high winds, prevailed throughout Iowa.

TATE CROMLEY

WHO IS WELL KNOWN HERE AND IN GRANVILLE, is Suspended in the East Pending Investigation of Reports of Alleged Professionalism.

Washington, April 9.—Tate Cromley, pitcher of the Georgetown university baseball team, has been suspended pending investigation of reports of alleged professionalism regarding him. It is claimed Cromley played with the Indianapolis team under the name of Crowley. His work this season has been sensational, having shut out Yale and Princeton. Cromley is an Ohio boy and a graduate of Kenyon college.

Cromley will be very well remembered in Newark, where he is well known, as well as in Granville, where for years, as the mainstay of Kenyon's athletic teams, football, baseball and track, he had on many occasions dashed the hopes of Denison for victory.

Last season he umpired the Kenyon-Ohio Wesleyan game of baseball at the Y. M. C. A. park, and later as a member of the All-Collegians twirled a great game against Idlewild, which was lost to his team through no weakness in the box.

Cromley is a fine specimen of physical manhood, is a successful athlete and a thoroughly honorable gentleman and a sportsman.
